What is Structured Water?

Water is constantly moving in nature as it tumbles over rocks, flows through rivers and cascades over waterfalls. This movement 'structures' water and maintains vitality through forming a balanced vortex motion which stimulates cell life in all living things. Our research team discovered that processed water from taps, bottles and filters becomes un-structured and the quality of the water is significantly reduced.

What are the benefits?

1 Increased energy and clarity

(increased photonic and biofield energy)

2 More resilient immune system

(increased bioavailable oxygen)

3 Better hydration

(increased absorption through reduced surface tension)

4 Reduced toxins and radicals

(alters their molecular and energetic structure and makes them less harmful)

5 Better health and wellbeing

(significant bio-availability, trace minerals and surplus energy)

6 Smoother water and softer skin & hair

(reduced water surface tension)

7 Enhanced nutrient absorption

(tighter packed and more organised molecules)

8 Improved circulation and reduced swelling

(increased absorption through reduced surface tension)

How do our Structured Water Units work?

Designed to mimic nature through motion and materials, our premium quality Structured Water Units are manufactured to a very high standard and undergo rigorous quality control. The unique and innovative design utilises a specific flow form geometry to establish a balanced vortex motion within the water, restoring vital properties. Our devices are sustainable, affordable, compact, easy to use and simple to install.
